Igor joins LewisLevy with nearly 30 years of experience spanning private equity valuations, fund accounting, financial reporting, and operational transformation. Prior to joining the firm, he spent nearly three decades at HarbourVest Partners, one of the world's leading private markets investment firms, most recently serving as Senior Vice President and Head of Valuations.

Throughout his distinguished career, Igor has overseen valuation processes for more than 1,900 partnership investments, 800 co-investments, and 150 evergreen fund assets. He served on HarbourVest's Audit, Valuation, and Evergreen Valuation Committees and led enterprise-wide initiatives involving valuation governance, technology modernization, and operational transformation.

"Igor is one of the most accomplished valuation professionals in private markets," said Kwame Lewis, Co-Founder of LewisLevy Consulting. "His experience building and overseeing institutional valuation frameworks at scale brings tremendous value to our clients. As managers face increasing demands from investors, auditors, and regulators, robust valuation practices have become foundational to institutional growth."

"Private markets have evolved significantly over the past two decades, bringing increased complexity and heightened expectations around transparency and governance," said Igor Rudfeld. "I'm excited to join LewisLevy at this stage of its growth and help clients build scalable, defensible valuation frameworks that meet the needs of today's investors."
