a premier camper van conversion company headquartered in Boulder,

Colorado, today announced its Independence Day Sale, running now through July 6, 2026.

Customers who start a new conversion will save 5% off their build, up to $2,500, and 5% off upgrades, up to $2,500. Build Slot Deposits of $3,000 need to be received by July 6th in order to participate in the sale and reserve the conversion space.

We build the majority of our components ourselves, here in Boulder, with American-made parts, the 250th felt like a fitting moment to pass some of that value back to the people who buy our vans."

Matt North

The $2,500 cap is no accident. 2026 marks 250 years since the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and Titan Vans set the discount at that figure as a nod to the milestone.

"We build the majority of our components ourselves, here in Boulder, with mostly American-made parts," founder Matt North said in a statement. "The 250th felt like a fitting moment to pass some of that value back to the people who buy our vans."

A Company Built on American Manufacturing

Titan Vans designs and builds its components in-house at its Boulder facility, using predominantly American-made parts and a vertically integrated production process. The company's engineering team relies on computer-aided design and digital manufacturing to produce its own electrical systems, water tanks, plumbing, cabinetry, and metalwork — giving Titan Vans full control over quality, compatibility, and serviceability across its lineup. That lean, in-house approach is also core to the company's pricing model, which is published transparently online for every base package and upgrade.

The company's current model lineup includes the modular Classic, the storage-focused Kronos, the flexible Metis, the premium Ultra, and an all-electric camper on the Volkswagen ID.Buzz. Titan Vans is RVIA-certified, a Mercedes-Benz Expert Upfitter, and also offers upgrades and service for Sprinter, Transit, ProMaster, ID. Buzz, Storyteller Overland, and Winnebago platforms.
