The firm represents clients in matters involving quiet title, partition actions, co-owner disputes, title disputes, boundary issues, HOA disputes, foreclosure defense, mortgage-related disputes, purchase and sale conflicts, contract disputes, partnership disputes, and business ownership conflicts.

Founded by attorney Stephen Vokshori, Vokshori Law Group focuses on helping clients navigate disputes where real estate, business interests, family wealth, or financial security may be at stake. The firm's team has more than 150 years of combined experience serving California clients, has earned strong client reviews including a 4.9-star Google rating based on 79 reviews, and was recognized by the City of Los Angeles as an Emerging Leaders Award Recipient for leadership, entrepreneurial spirit, and contribution to the Southern California business community.

Vokshori is a UCLA School of Law graduate who graduated Magna Cum Laude from USC's Marshall School of Business. He has been admitted to the California State Bar since 2006 and is admitted to practice in California and before the U.S. District Courts for the Central, Southern, Eastern, and Northern Districts of California.

"When a property dispute puts someone's home, business, or investment at risk, every decision matters," said Stephen Vokshori of Vokshori Law Group. "Clients need experienced attorneys who are strategic, aggressive when necessary, and one step ahead, but also mindful of the real-world cost of litigation. At Vokshori Law Group, we focus on protecting our clients' rights while pursuing practical, cost-effective strategies that keep their long-term interests at the center of the case."

Vokshori Law Group serves California property owners, homeowners, real estate investors, business owners, landlords, tenants, developers, and co-owners facing serious real estate and business disputes. The firm's work includes litigation involving property rights, title disputes, ownership interests, foreclosure issues, and business conflicts.
