

Atlantic Employee Screening Launches AES QuickApp™ with Biometric Identity Verification

New capability, powered by Cerebrum's vID™ technology, helps employers verify identities faster, reduce fraud, and improve workforce screening.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, FL, UNITED STATES, June 29, 2026

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Atlantic Employee Screening (AES), a leading provider of workforce screening, employment background screening, identity verification, and drug testing solutions, today announced the availability of Cerebrum's vID™

Biometric Identity Verification through the AES QuickApp™ platform. The new capability enables employers to securely verify a candidate's identity in minutes before the background screening process begins, helping organizations improve hiring accuracy, reduce identity fraud, support compliance initiatives, and create a faster, more secure hiring experience. The enhancement is available to Atlantic Employee Screening clients using the AES QuickApp™ platform and is designed to help organizations build more secure, efficient, and compliant hiring programs.

"Organizations today need more than a background screening provider. They need a trusted workforce screening partner that combines innovative technology with exceptional service," said Doug Avdellas, CEO of Atlantic Employee Screening. "By making Cerebrum's vID™ biometric identity verification available through the AES QuickApp™ platform, while continuing to provide 100 percent live, U.S. based customer support and flexible service without long term contracts, we're giving employers a better way to hire with confidence and support their compliance initiatives across domestic and global hiring programs."

The new capability is especially valuable for organizations in healthcare, financial services, education, transportation, manufacturing, government contracting, and other industries where confirming applicant identity is an essential part of the hiring process. Employers with distributed, remote, or international workforces can also benefit from a secure and efficient applicant verification experience.

The availability of Cerebrum's vID™ technology through the AES QuickApp™ platform reflects Atlantic Employee Screening's continued investment in innovative workforce screening technology. Combined with responsive U.S. based customer service and flexible screening solutions, AES helps employers improve hiring efficiency while supporting compliance with applicable hiring regulations.

"We are excited to collaborate with Atlantic Employee Screening to deliver a seamless identity verification experience that benefits both employers and applicants," said Sebastian Mellen, Co Founder and CEO of Cerebrum. "By making our vID™ biometric identity verification technology available through the AES QuickApp™ platform, organizations can streamline hiring workflows while increasing confidence that every background screening begins with a verified identity."
