Corset Wholesale Ltd. introduces an exclusive collection where customer interest determines production while preserving design exclusivity.

GURGAON, HARYANA, INDIA, June 29, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Gurugram, India – June 2026 — Corset Wholesale Ltd., one of the world's leading factory-direct corsetry manufacturers, today announced the launch of its Private Reserve Collection, an innovative product development platform designed to give fashion brands exclusive early access to new corset designs before they enter production.

Unlike traditional wholesale catalogues where every design is immediately available for purchase, the Private Reserve Collection introduces a more selective approach. Newly developed designs are presented exclusively to registered wholesale customers, allowing brands to express interest in styles before manufacturing begins.

The initiative is built around a simple philosophy: great designs should remain exclusive—not become instantly available to everyone.

Each design in the Private Reserve Collection is offered to only a limited number of interested customers. Customer interest helps Corset Wholesale Ltd. identify which styles deserve

"Our customers are constantly looking for something unique that their competitors don't already have," said Suman Bharti, Founder of Corset Wholesale Ltd. "The Private Reserve Collection gives brands the opportunity to discover our latest creations early, while helping us make smarter production decisions based on genuine market demand rather than speculation."

By manufacturing only the designs that generate real interest, the company expects to reduce unnecessary inventory, accelerate product development, and deliver collections that better reflect current market demand.
