Living Gallery

Living Gallery transforms a previously dark three-bedroom unit into an illuminated loop space containing two rooms and a walk-in closet. A circular circulation path replaces dead-end corridors, introducing natural light and improving openness throughout the residence. Modular shelving and embedded tracks allow the client to curate the space like a gallery director, adapting to artworks of varying sizes. Low-saturation warm greys paired with 3000K high CRI lighting, rated above 90, ensure the collection is displayed optimally while avoiding a sterile showroom atmosphere. A large central island combining warm walnut wood with warm grey marble integrates appliances and storage, balancing premium character with genuine comfort.

This recognition is expected to inform future projects undertaken by MOG Interior Design Co., Ltd., reinforcing the studio's exploration of layered materiality and flexible spatial systems. The Bronze A' Design Award may encourage continued investigation into how hospitality-grade specifications can elevate private residential standards. It serves as motivation for the team to refine its methodology while maintaining attention to the rhythms of daily life. The achievement also supports the studio's pursuit of designs that remain considered and enduring over time.
