NUNDA, NY, UNITED STATES, August 25, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Once Again is making protein perfectly portable with the launch of High-Protein Spread Packets. Featuring an improved system for a smoother, easier squeeze, each single-serve packet provides 8g of plant-based protein in a creamy, no-stir format designed for life on the move – no spoon, no mess, no prep required. The portfolio consists of four great flavors and can be found at Whole Foods Market stores across the country and through the brand's website and Amazon.

These spread packets deliver the protein consumers want in a simple format that supports busy, active lifestyles - whether at the office, the gym, or on the trail.”

- Organic Peanut: Classic roasted flavor for pure peanut bliss.
- Organic Chocolate Peanut: Rich cocoa meets roasted peanuts for a wholesome indulgence.
- Organic Sunflower Butter: A peanut- and tree nut-free choice with toasty, satisfying flavor.
- Natural Almond Butter: Smooth, nutty, and balanced with subtle sweetness.

Designed to support energy, recovery, and wellness, these powerhouse spread packets feature peanut butter, almond butter, or sunflower seed butter as their first ingredients. The peanut varieties are boosted with peanut protein flour, while the almond and sunflower options include hempseed protein powder — a complete protein delivering all essential amino acids without altering taste or texture. All SKUs are Non-GMO Project Verified, gluten-free certified, kosher, and vegan, with three also USDA Certified Organic. The SRP is $14.99 for a 10-pack and $1.49 for a single packet.

“Portable, high-protein snacks continue to resonate as consumers look for convenient, clean nutrition that fits seamlessly into their day,” said Susan DiPietro, Once Again's CEO. “These spread packets deliver the protein consumers want in a simple format that supports busy, active lifestyles - whether at the office, the gym, or on the trail."
