

1 Stop Pack n Ship Serves Washington, D.C. as an International Moving Company for Local and Global Relocations

WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, July 2, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In a city where people and businesses are constantly in motion, moving is rarely just about getting items from one address to another. It is about timing, coordination, trust, and the confidence that valued belongings will arrive safely. 1 Stop Pack n Ship is continuing to meet that need in the nation's capital by announcing it is serving clients from its Washington, D.C. office as a full-service international moving company for residential and commercial relocations.

Located at 1629 K Street NW, #300, Washington, DC 20006, 1 Stop Pack n Ship provides packing, crating, shipping, freight, and relocation support for customers throughout the Washington metropolitan area. The company's Washington, D.C. office reflects its broader commitment to helping clients manage domestic and international moves with practical support, careful handling, and coordinated service tailored to each shipment.

For individuals planning an overseas move, the process often begins long before a box is sealed. It starts with deciding what can travel safely, what requires custom protection, and how a move can be organized without unnecessary stress. For commercial clients, the challenge can be even greater, with office furniture, equipment, documents, and specialty items often requiring a higher level of planning. As an international moving company, 1 Stop Pack n Ship is positioning its Washington, D.C. office as a resource for clients who want more than basic transportation.

The company's service offering includes international moving, domestic moving, freight coordination, professional packing, and custom crating. It also handles fragile, oversized, and high-value items, including artwork and specialty pieces that require added care. That range of services is especially relevant in Washington, where clients may include government-adjacent professionals, diplomats, business owners, families, collectors, and organizations preparing for complex relocations.

What distinguishes an experienced international moving company is often not a single service, but the ability to bring many moving parts together in a way that feels orderly and reliable. Packing methods, freight arrangements, export preparation, timing, and delivery coordination all influence the outcome of a move. 1 Stop Pack n Ship's Washington, D.C. office is designed to support those needs through a full-service model intended to help clients navigate each stage with greater clarity.

“Every move has its own story, and international relocation adds another layer of responsibility,” says Roy, Co-Founder of 1 Stop Pack n Ship. “Our role is to help make that process more manageable by providing careful packing, dependable coordination, and a service approach that respects both the value of the items and the importance of the timeline.”

Founded in 1984, 1 Stop Pack n Ship has built its business around shipping and relocation support for customers with a wide range of needs. Its Washington, D.C. office brings that experience directly into one of the country’s busiest and most dynamic markets, where clients often need a moving partner capable of handling local, interstate, and international requirements under one roof.

For some customers, that may mean preparing a household for an overseas transition. For others, it may involve coordinating freight, shipping office contents, or arranging secure transport for items that cannot be entrusted to standard handling. In each case, the company’s goal is not simply movement, but a more organized relocation experience backed by professional preparation and attention to detail.

As demand continues to grow for dependable cross-border shipping and relocation services, 1 Stop Pack n Ship is reinforcing the role of its Washington, D.C. office as a practical destination for clients seeking an international moving company with regional presence and worldwide reach.
