ground between New York City and the Bridgeport factory. With direct I-95 access, the Norwalk location keeps the company's decision-makers a short drive from the factory floor while staying within easy reach of the New York City market.

"Quantum Cyber is a company investing heavily in new technology, and for them to choose 200 Connecticut Avenue is a real privilege and a strong statement," said a leasing representative for the building. "It tells us they see the same vision and momentum we're building here."

"We looked at locations across the region, but 200 Connecticut Avenue stood apart," said a Quantum Cyber spokesperson. "The ownership has a clear vision, and you feel the momentum the moment you walk through the door. We needed room to grow, and this space delivers."

The lease caps a stretch of steady leasing activity that has followed a series of ownership-led upgrades across the property. Details on those improvements and other building news are available at 200ct.com/news.
