woman-owned dumpster rental company, now serves the Memphis metro across Tennessee, Mississippi, and Arkansas. Operating from two locations, Memphis, TN and Southaven, MS, the company provides 10- to 40-yard roll-off dumpsters and permanent commercial dumpster service for residential, construction, and commercial projects throughout the Mid-South.

Coverage spans the full tri-state metro, including Memphis, Bartlett, Germantown, Collierville, Cordova, and Lakeland in Tennessee; Southaven, Olive Branch, Horn Lake, and Hernando across DeSoto County, Mississippi; and West

Memphis, Arkansas.

Customers can rent roll-off containers for cleanouts, renovations, roofing, and construction debris, or set up permanent scheduled dumpster service for ongoing commercial needs. Homeowners and contractors can book online or by phone through the Memphis or Southaven locations, with delivery and pickup scheduled across the metro.

The expansion comes as the Memphis metro continues to see strong construction and industrial activity. As of early 2025, the metro had roughly 12.5 million square feet of industrial space under construction, according to industry data from CommercialEdge. That activity, anchored in part by Ford’s BlueOval City development, continues to drive demand for reliable roll-off and commercial dumpster service across the region.

“When you call us, someone answers. When you need a pickup, it happens. When you want to know what something costs, we tell you. Memphis is a growing city with serious construction and commercial activity, and we think businesses there deserve that same level of service,” said Julie Cronen and Kim Jenkins, Co-Owners of Coast to Coast Disposal.
