

QuickFitting Signs Agreement to Be Acquired by Everflow

Acquisition pairs QuickFitting's differentiated connection technologies with Everflow's nationwide distribution platform.

EAST PROVIDENCE, RI, UNITED STATES,
July 8, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ --

QuickFitting, a recognized provider of innovative plumbing connection technologies and engineered product solutions, today announced that it has signed an agreement to be acquired by Everflow.

The agreement brings QuickFitting's innovative connection technologies, including SurePress® technology, Push-to-Connect solutions and an extensive portfolio of patented products, into Everflow's growing portfolio of differentiated brands and product solutions. Following the acquisition, QuickFitting will leverage Everflow's nationwide distribution platform to expand market reach while continuing to invest in product innovation and customer growth.

Joining Everflow allows us to build on that mission by combining our product innovation with a nationwide platform that expands our reach.”

Adam Horwitz, Chief Executive Officer of QuickFitting

“QuickFitting has always been focused on developing innovative technologies that solve real-world installation challenges,” said Adam Horwitz, Chief Executive Officer of QuickFitting. “Joining Everflow allows us to build on that mission by combining our product innovation with a nationwide platform that expands our reach while maintaining our commitment to quality, engineering, and customer service.”

Following the transaction, QuickFitting will continue to focus on product development and on strengthening the innovative solutions customers rely on today, while leveraging Everflow's nationwide distribution platform to expand product availability, support existing customers, and reach new markets.

“QuickFitting is an excellent strategic fit for Everflow,” said Andrew Pacifico, Chief Executive Officer of Everflow. “Its portfolio of innovative products, engineering expertise, and strong customer relationships complements our existing capabilities and supports our strategy of expanding differentiated product solutions that help our customers compete and grow. By combining QuickFitting's technologies with Everflow's nationwide distribution platform, we can deliver even greater value to customers while continuing to invest in long-term product development."

Over the coming months, QuickFitting and Everflow will work together to thoughtfully integrate QuickFitting's products into the Everflow portfolio while maintaining continuity for customers, suppliers and business partners, creating additional opportunities to better serve wholesale distributors across North America.
