COMO, CO, ITALY, July 10, 2026

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The A' Design Award has announced Contemporary Nineties by Thiago Mondini as a Bronze winner in the Interior Space and Exhibition Design category. The A' Design Award is one of the world's most prestigious recognitions in the field of interior design, drawing entries from designers, studios, and brands across many countries. Within the interior design industry, the Bronze A' Design Award is regarded as a highly respected acknowledgement of thoughtful and well-executed work. The recognition of Contemporary Nineties places a careful residential renovation among notable projects evaluated through a rigorous, criteria-based process. The honor underscores the quality and considered approach that distinguish this interior project.

The recognition of Contemporary Nineties holds relevance for both the interior design industry and the homeowners who seek to balance heritage with contemporary living. The project addresses a growing interest in preserving architectural identity while adapting interiors to modern functional and aesthetic needs. By demonstrating how subtle interventions can update spaces without erasing their original character, the work contributes a practical reference for residential renovation practices. This approach aligns with current industry attention to sustainability, longevity, and respectful reuse of existing structures. For users, the outcome is an interior that improves comfort and usability while honoring the building's authentic essence.

architectural quality typical of that decade. The intervention focused exclusively on the interiors, preserving the original character while updating the spaces for present-day living. Design decisions relied on detailed analysis of existing spaces, materials, and proportions, employing high-quality finishes, refined lighting, and considered furniture layouts. The result establishes a harmonious balance between historical identity and contemporary lifestyle, where modern functionality complements rather than competes with the home's vintage spirit. This careful coherence between preservation and modernization sets the project apart.

The Bronze A' Design Award recognition offers encouragement for Thiago Mondini and the studio to continue exploring renovation methods that respect existing architecture. The honor may inform future residential projects where heritage and modern needs are reconciled through measured interventions. It reinforces a philosophy that values the symbolic and utilitarian roles of design in equal measure. The acknowledgement serves as motivation for the team to pursue further refinement and innovation in interior renovation.
