Nationwide Disability Representatives helps SSDI and SSI applicants file claims, appeal denials, and navigate the SSA process to pursue benefits.

CAPE CORAL, FL, UNITED STATES, July 10, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Social Security Administration rejects around 70% of initial Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) applications. This high rejection rate is reported to be catastrophic for individuals who are already unable to work due to severe medical conditions.

The SSA reports insufficient medical evidence, earning above the income limit, failure to meet the 12-month duration requirement, failure to follow treatment plans, and procedural and communication errors as the leading causes of rejection.

Many individuals abandon their claims entirely after the first rejection due to complex bureaucratic hurdles, at which point specialized legal representation becomes critical.
