A Visual Journey of Healing and Hope

The music video for "Get Better" beautifully translates the song's central theme, which is built around the timeless promise in Psalm 30:5 that "weeping may endure for a night, but joy comes in the morning". Through an intentional, sonically nostalgic contemporary gospel production, the visual follows a journey from rough terrain and isolation to light, restoration, and breakthrough. It brings to life the song's emphasis on prayer, personal responsibility, and pushing past doubt or fear.

“Get Better is more than music, it’s encouragement for people who may be struggling mentally, emotionally, spiritually, or physically. The record reminds listeners that no matter what season they’re in, healing is possible and things can get better,” states Q Parker.
