Lingerie Fighting Championships (LFC), the world's leading all-female sports entertainment league, today announced a strategic partnership with LFC star Angelica Ko and her newly opened Dragon Rage training gym and event venue in Sardinia, Italy.

The multi-year agreement establishes Dragon Rage as LFC's official European training hub and event home, with Ko taking on an expanded role as head trainer for the promotion's growing roster of European fighters. Beginning next year, Dragon Rage will host six LFC Academy Europe events annually, marking the promotion's most significant international expansion to date.

"Dragon Rage was built to give fighters the space and coaching they need to compete at the highest level, and there's no better partner for that mission than LFC," said Angelica Ko. "I can't wait to help develop the next generation of European talent and bring world-class fight nights to Sardinia."

LFC leadership echoed that enthusiasm, calling the partnership a natural next step in the promotion's international growth and a vote of confidence in Ko's vision for Dragon Rage as a home for elite competition and coaching.

"In addition to being an undefeated boxer and one of LFC's top European contenders, Ko is an amazing businesswoman," LFC CEO Shaun Donnelly says. "It's been a real pleasure watching her vision for Dragon Rage and LFC Academy Europe come to life."

Halloween Season Finale to Debut at Dragon Rage This Year

Ahead of the six-event annual slate beginning next year, LFC's marquee Halloween show and season finale will take place at Dragon Rage this year, giving fans an early look at the venue and its growing stable of fighters.

The card will mark the promotion debut of several Dragon Rage fighters, headlined by Michela Corona, winner of LFC's inaugural Queen of the Cage tournament. Corona claimed the title after outlasting a field of 31 other prospects, establishing herself as one of the promotion's most exciting rising stars heading into her LFC debut.

"Everything I've worked for has led to this moment," said Corona. "Winning Queen of the Cage was the beginning — now I get to show the world what Dragon Rage fighters are made of on LFC's biggest stage of the year."
