Get Simple Box Storage Container in Palm Springs, the premier provider of portable storage solutions in the Coachella Valley, successfully hosted more than 70 local construction industry professionals for the landmark launch of the region's very first National Hispanic Construction Alliance (NHCA) chapter.

The energy in the room was truly electric. We welcomed 70 of the region's hardest-working construction professionals to celebrate the launch of this incredible chapter.”

Manny Ortiz

On July 10, Palm Springs Restaurant hosted the inaugural networking mixer, uniting local contractors, builders, and tradespeople. This landmark event connects local construction professionals to a national network of over 4,000 members, creating new opportunities for mentorship and business development.

The event was sponsored and spearheaded by the Ortiz family, owners of Get Simple Box in Palm Springs, to reinforce their deep commitment to local builders and the construction community.

"The energy in the room was truly electric," said Manny

Ortiz, of Get Simple Box Palm Springs. "We welcomed 70 of the region's hardest-working construction professionals to celebrate the launch of this incredible chapter. As a family-owned portable storage company that works side-by-side with these contractors on job sites every day, the Ortiz family was honored to provide a space for them to connect, collaborate, and build the foundation for our local NHCA network."

The evening featured collaborative networking, introductory remarks from regional chapter leaders, and strategic discussions on how the national association will provide resources and advocacy for the local Hispanic construction community. Attendees also engaged with the Get Simple Box team to discuss custom job-site logistics and scalable storage solutions designed to support upcoming regional building projects.
