Vancouver neighbourhoods, including detached homes in Canyon Heights in North Vancouver and Cedardale in West Vancouver, as well as strata condos in Burnaby’s Metrotown area and Vancouver’s Fairview neighbourhood.

These bathroom projects included the removal of existing bathtub-and-shower combinations and the installation of modern walk-in showers tailored to each property’s layout, plumbing conditions, and homeowner requirements.

Selected projects included waterproofing systems, drain modifications, large-format tile installation, updated plumbing fixtures, shower niches and frameless glass enclosures.

“Walk-in shower conversions continue to be one of the most requested bathroom upgrades among both house and condo owners,” said Alex Mann, Owner of Grand Renovations. “Homeowners are looking for bathrooms that are easier to use, visually open and designed for long-term practicality.”

Grand Renovations also completed seven kitchen cabinet and countertop renovation packages during July.

The kitchen projects were located in Lower Lonsdale in North Vancouver, Dundarave in West Vancouver, Brentwood in Burnaby and Kitsilano in Vancouver.

The completed kitchen work included cabinet replacement, revised storage configurations, quartz and quartzite countertop installation, backsplash work, appliance coordination, lighting updates and finish carpentry.

Four complete strata condo renovation packages were also completed during the month. These projects required coordination between homeowners, strata corporations, property managers, building personnel and construction trades.

Strata renovation requirements can include renovation applications, contractor insurance documentation, WorkSafeBC information, restricted working hours, elevator reservations, common-area protection and municipal permits where required.

For Burnaby condo projects, Grand Renovations coordinated strata approvals alongside City of Burnaby permit requirements where the renovation scope required municipal authorization.

The company’s condo renovation process is designed to manage the additional scheduling, documentation and access requirements associated with occupied multi-unit residential buildings.

Grand Renovations has developed a structured process for walk-in shower conversions that includes site assessment, scope preparation, material planning, demolition, plumbing coordination, waterproofing, tile installation, glass measurement and final finishing.
