

Toronto Jazz Trumpeter Mike Field Releases New "Traffic Police" Music Video Ahead of August 5 Hometown Concert

Upbeat original from Nashland, filmed in Toronto's Canary District, launches ahead of Reid's Distillery performance.

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA, July 27, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Toronto jazz trumpeter, guitarist, vocalist, and composer Mike Field has released the official music video for "Traffic Police," the latest track from his acclaimed album Nashland. The release arrives just ahead of Field's upcoming hometown concert at Reid's Distillery on Wednesday, August 5.

Mike Field - Jazz Trumpeter & Composer

Nashland features seven original compositions inspired by the timeless feel of classic jazz standards while showcasing Field's melodic writing, energetic improvisation, and dynamic quintet.

Everything came together perfectly—the weather was great, the band was sharp, and the team brought the song to life right in my neighbourhood.”

Mike Field, Jazz Trumpeter & Composer

Filmed in Toronto's vibrant Canary District, the "Traffic Police" video highlights the neighbourhood's striking public art installations and the recently opened Biidaasige Park, blending modern cityscapes with the high-energy pulse of Field's music. The video was directed and produced by Nick Appleton of Apple Orchard Productions Inc.

"Working with Apple Orchard Productions was a fantastic experience," says Field. "The weather was perfect, the band was on fire, and the Canary District gave us an incredible backdrop for the video. We were excited to showcase one of Toronto's newest and most beautiful neighbourhoods."

The video features Field alongside an outstanding ensemble including Paul Metcalfe (tenor saxophone), Lindsay Clark (piano), Russ Boswell (upright bass), and Jackson Haynes (drums).
