"We are thrilled to welcome Summit to the CUSAL family. Their analytical rigor—bringing PhD-level economists and statisticians to the hardest questions in federal credit and risk—is exactly what this community needs right now. We look forward to collaborating with Summit to advance the use of data-driven tools and modernization frameworks to help agencies administer lending programs with greater precision, transparency, and accountability."

— Doug Criscitello, Executive Director, The Center for USA Lending

Summit brings specialized expertise in data science, risk analytics, and federal infrastructure finance that directly aligns with CUSAL's core mission. With a track record of turning complex data into actionable intelligence for federal agencies (including work across housing finance, Treasury, and USDA programs), Summit is well-positioned to strengthen CUSAL's research and policy work.
