

Ryan's Mountain Rentals Launches Guided Night Rides Through the Sun Valley Backcountry

Explore Idaho's high country after dark on a Polaris RZR beneath a sky full of stars

BELLEVUE, ID, UNITED STATES, July 29, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Ryan's Mountain Rentals today announced the launch of night rides, a new way to experience the backcountry surrounding Sun Valley once the sun goes down. Riders can now take a Polaris RZR out under the stars, trading daytime crowds for cool mountain air, quiet trails, and some of the darkest, clearest skies in the Lower 48.

Central Idaho is home to the country's first International Dark Sky Reserve, and the terrain around Sun Valley offers a front-row seat to the Milky Way, meteor showers, and constellations that city dwellers rarely get to see. Riding the backcountry at night turns a familiar landscape into something entirely new — headlights cutting across the sagebrush, the mountains silhouetted against the stars, and the trail all to yourself.

"A night ride is a completely different experience. The country feels bigger, quieter, and a lot more alive after dark. Once you're out there under that sky, you understand why people fall in love with this valley." said Owner, Ryan Parton of Ryan's Mountain Rentals.

Each night ride features gps guided tours, with fully equipped RZRs, lighting packages, helmets, and safety gear included. Rides are best suited for anyone and reservations are limited to preserve the quiet, uncrowded experience.

Night rides are available beginning [date], weather and conditions permitting. To book a ride or
