workplace practices, confidential employee feedback, and comparative benchmarking against participating organizations. GLS completed the rigorous evaluation, demonstrating excellence across all of the Employer of Choice® domains.

As the first logistics company to earn the Employer of Choice® award, GLS highlights the importance of workplace culture and employee engagement in an industry where people play a critical role in operational performance and the customer experience.

"At GLS, we believe our people are our greatest strength. This recognition reflects the commitment, collaboration, and customer focus demonstrated by our employees every day. We are proud to be recognized as an Employer of Choice and to foster an environment where people can grow, succeed, and deliver exception service," said JoDawn Whitlock, President of GLS.

"Organizations earn this impressive recognition by creating an environment where people want to contribute, grow, and succeed," said Joyce Gioia, CEO, Employer of Choice International. "GLS demonstrates commitment through its collaborative culture, engaged leadership, and investment in its people."

The award reflects GLS' ongoing investment in its people and its commitment to creating an environment where employees are supported, empowered, and able to do their best work, ultimately benefiting employees, customers, and service partners alike.
