“People researching international surrogacy often find pieces of information without a clear explanation of how

Surrogacy and presenter of the webinar sessions. "This series gives intended parents a structured place to learn, ask questions and understand what they should discuss with qualified medical, legal and financial professionals before making decisions."

Early Sessions Draw International Participation and Detailed Questions

The opening webinar, "Choosing International Surrogacy: Mexico," was held July 17. It introduced gestational surrogacy, explained why intended parents may research options outside their home countries and outlined factors to consider when evaluating Mexico or any international destination. The session also addressed provider selection, transparency, realistic timelines and common warning signs, including guaranteed outcomes, pressure to sign quickly and unclear pricing.

The first and second webinars attracted participants from several countries including the United States, Belgium, France, Canada, Australia among others, reflecting international interest in practical information about surrogacy in Mexico. The second webinar, "The Complete Journey: From Consultation to Bringing Your Baby Home," held July 31, had a remarkable increased number of registrations remarkably, compared to the first webinar, for the over-90-minute presentation and Q&A.

That webinar explained the journey from initial consultation, contract preparation and medical testing through embryo creation or international embryo shipping, surrogate screening and matching, embryo transfer, pregnancy, birth and the post-birth process. It also provided general planning ranges for key stages while emphasizing that medical response, legal requirements and individual circumstances can change every timeline.

Viewers had the opportunity to pose their questions and the largest topics concerned clinical and embryo strategy, and legal, birth and exit procedures. Other questions addressed egg donor and surrogate selection, location and logistics, post-birth support, grants and financial assistance. All were answered during a 25-minute live Q&A.

Questions included whether intended parents can choose the city for their journey, how embryos are shipped and stored, whether preimplantation genetic testing is required, how surrogates are screened, how birth registration and passports are handled, and what support is available after a baby leaves the hospital.

Six Webinars Cover the International Surrogacy Journey

The complete 2026 schedule is:

- July 17: Choosing International Surrogacy: Mexico
- July 31: The Complete Journey: From Consultation to Bringing Your Baby Home
- Aug. 14: Egg Donors: From Screening to Retrieval
- Aug. 28: The Surrogate's Journey
- Sept. 18: Surrogacy in Mexico: Budgeting and Financial Planning
- Oct. 2: Surrogacy in Mexico: Legal Parentage, Citizenship, and Going Back Home

Each webinar is planned as a 45- to 50-minute educational presentation followed by 10 to 15 minutes for questions. When audience interest requires additional time, the live Q&A may be extended.

Upcoming Webinar Explains Egg Donor Screening and Retrieval

The next webinar, "Egg Donors: From Screening to Retrieval," will take place Aug. 14 from 5 to 6 p.m. Central time. The session will explain why intended parents may use donor eggs and how prospective egg donors move through medical, psychological, genetic and lifestyle screening before being accepted into a program.

Attendees will learn what information may be available when selecting a donor; how ovarian stimulation, monitoring and egg retrieval work; what happens during fertilization and embryo development; and why not every retrieved egg becomes a blastocyst. The webinar also will address fresh and frozen donor eggs, genetic testing, cryopreservation and questions intended parents should ask when comparing egg donor programs.

Future Sessions Address Surrogates, Costs and Returning Home

“The Surrogate’s Journey,” scheduled for Aug. 28, will examine the experience of gestational carriers from application and screening through matching, embryo transfer, pregnancy, delivery and postpartum recovery. The webinar will discuss medical and psychological screening, communication, privacy, expectations and ways intended parents can support a respectful relationship with a surrogate.

“Surrogacy in Mexico: Budgeting and Financial Planning,” scheduled for Sept. 18, will help intended parents build a more complete budget. Topics will include fertility treatment, egg donation, surrogate-related services, legal work, travel, accommodation, medication, international payments and contingency planning. The session will focus on understanding what is included or excluded from a program rather than comparing advertised prices alone.

The final webinar, “Surrogacy in Mexico: Legal Parentage, Citizenship, and Going Back Home,” will be held Oct. 2. It will provide a general overview of preparing documents before birth, birth registration, legal parentage, citizenship, passports or other travel documents, medical clearance and planning for the return home. Because requirements vary by country and may change, the session will emphasize early preparation and advice from qualified lawyers in the relevant jurisdictions.

Education Designed to Support Informed Decisions

The series is educational and does not replace individualized medical, legal, immigration or financial advice. Surrogacy laws, citizenship requirements, clinical recommendations, costs and timelines vary by country, provider and individual circumstances.

Miracle Surrogacy developed the sessions to answer common questions while helping intended parents identify what they need to verify independently. Across the series, attendees are encouraged to ask providers about surrogate and egg donor screening, medical professionals, legal support, communication, payment structures, services included in a program and plans for unexpected events.
