Sandy Papavero

In this role, Papavero will lead the strategic direction, member experience, coaching curriculum, and continued growth of Winners' Circle. She will work closely with members to strengthen leadership, improve sales performance, build accountable teams, and create businesses that can scale beyond the owner.

Papavero brings extensive experience in sales, marketing, business advising, leadership development, and the home service industry. She previously served as Director of Sales and Marketing, Master Advisor, and Growth Advisor at CEO Warrior, where she helped service business owners develop the strategies, leadership skills, and mindset required to grow sustainable companies.

Her background also includes experience in finance, business ownership, and high-level sales work alongside organizations connected to Tony Robbins and Chet Holmes. Papavero is a certified life and mindset coach with expertise in neuro-linguistic programming, giving her a unique ability to connect business strategy with the leadership behaviors required to execute it.

“Sandy brings exactly what Winners' Circle members need,” said Lance Bachmann, founder and CEO of LB Capital. “She understands the home service industry, she knows how to challenge business owners, and she has the experience to turn ideas into action. She will raise the level of accountability, leadership, and execution across the entire Winners' Circle community.”

Winners' Circle provides home service business owners with coaching, peer accountability, leadership development, strategic guidance, and direct access to operators who understand what it takes to build a more profitable and valuable company.

“Winners' Circle is built for owners who know they are capable of more but need the right people, structure, and accountability around them,” said Papavero. “My goal is to help our members become stronger leaders, make better decisions, and build companies that reflect the future they are working toward. I am honored to lead this community and excited about what we are going to accomplish together.”

Papavero's appointment reflects LB Capital's continued investment in developing leaders and building an experienced team that can provide meaningful support to home service business owners at every stage of growth.

“Sandy does not believe in surface-level coaching,” Bachmann added. “She will get to the real issue, challenge owners to take responsibility, and help them build the discipline and leadership infrastructure required to grow. That is what Winners' Circle is all about.”

LB Capital is proud to welcome Sandy Papavero to the team and looks forward to the impact she will make on Winners' Circle members and the broader home service industry.
