Air Pros is pleased to announce it is expanding its professional indoor air quality and HVAC services throughout the Greater Houston area. The company now provides residential and commercial air duct cleaning, dryer vent cleaning, HVAC system cleaning, attic insulation, duct replacement, mold remediation, and indoor air quality solutions. The goal of this growth is to help homeowners improve air quality, HVAC efficiency, and energy savings while serving communities across the Houston metro area with licensed, professional service.

“We’re incredibly happy to be expanding our services so we can assist more homeowners with their household heating and cooling needs,” explains Matt Huy, company founder and manager. “The change will mean that we are able to provide more high-quality services to the people in the local community, including improving their air quality while maintaining their HVAC systems.”

Top Star Air Pros is a Houston-based, family-owned and operated company that has been working with local clients since 2009. It stands behind all of its services with a professional commitment and gives homeowners the ability to clean out their air conditioning systems so they function efficiently. For example, Top Star Air Pros offers:

- Air duct cleaning
- Air duct mold removal
- Air duct replacement
- Dryer vent cleaning
- Chimney-related services
- Attic insulation services

According to Top Star Air Pros, there isn’t just one way to achieve the perfect level of comfort. On many occasions, it requires a range of different cleaning strategies to remove particles from air ducts and vents so that indoor air quality can remain high. The firm provides its customers with extensive education to help them make informed decisions about the path they want to take forward.

Company technicians work quietly and efficiently and have a reputation for behaving professionally. Everyone working for the firm pays close attention to the details, noting homeowners' particular concerns and providing customers with services that they'll recommend to others.
