Returning virtual host Cameron Bure is an Emmy-nominated actress, producer, director, and New York Times bestselling author beloved by audiences as D.J. Tanner on the television series Full House and its Netflix reboot, Fuller House. She is also a passionate philanthropist who supports organizations including Free Wheelchair Mission, whose work she has witnessed firsthand by participating in a wheelchair distribution and meeting individuals whose lives have been transformed through mobility.

"I'm so grateful to be back hosting Virtual Miracle of Mobility," said Candace Cameron Bure. "When I traveled to the Dominican Republic, I saw firsthand what the gift of a wheelchair can mean for someone who has been living without mobility. It brings freedom and hope, not only to the person receiving it, but to their whole family. I'll never forget the families I met and the joy we shared. I had the privilege of being part of their stories, and I can't wait to share these unforgettable moments."

Virtual Musical Performance by for KING + COUNTRY

Also returning to the virtual event is musical duo for KING + COUNTRY. Brothers Joel and Luke Smallbone have earned four GRAMMY® Awards, 13 No. 1 hits, and more than 5 billion career streams, performing for sold-out audiences across the United States, Australia, and Europe. Deeply committed to humanitarian causes, for KING + COUNTRY first partnered with Free Wheelchair Mission for the inaugural Virtual Miracle of Mobility in 2020.

This 25th-anniversary edition of Miracle of Mobility will honor the lives transformed over the past quarter-century while inviting guests to help shape the organization's next chapter. Through uplifting music, powerful stories from around the world, and virtual encounters with wheelchair recipients, guests will discover how they can help expand possibilities for individuals and families as Free Wheelchair Mission works toward its goal of providing 3 million wheelchairs by 2035.

"From the very beginning, this mission has been driven by people across the world who share a heart for bringing mobility to others," said Nuka Hart, CEO of Free Wheelchair Mission. "As we celebrate our 25th anniversary, I'm especially excited to welcome more of our supporters and distribution partners to Miracle of Mobility than ever before—and to invite even more people to join us in carrying this work forward, transforming lives for generations to come."

Join the movement by attending the Orange County event, streaming the virtual program, or hosting a watch party. Tickets, registration, and additional event information are available at MiracleofMobility.org.
