“

We are looking forward to bringing the aviation engine community to Lisbon to connect with colleagues and address how current events, from AI to global tensions, are impacting the industry.”

Helen Curl, Vice President of Events for Aviation Week by Informa

New York, August 4, 2026 -- As the aviation industry continues to navigate evolving fleet requirements, next-generation propulsion technologies and increasing demand for maintenance capacity, Aviation Week by Informa will convene the industry's leading engine experts at AeroEngines Europe (AEEUR), taking place September 1-2 at the CCL Lisbon Congress Centre in Lisbon, Portugal.

Recognized as Europe's premier conference and showcase dedicated to the aero engine sector, AeroEngines Europe will bring together more than 750 senior executives from engine manufacturers, airlines, engine and aircraft lessors, OEMs, MRO providers and suppliers to examine the trends, challenges and opportunities shaping the future of engine maintenance, operations and technology.

Over two days, attendees will participate in high-level conference sessions, strategic networking opportunities and an expansive exhibition showcasing the latest products, services and innovations. The event serves as a premier forum for exchanging best practices, strengthening existing partnerships and creating new business opportunities across the global aero engine value chain.

The conference agenda features speakers and panel discussions dedicated to timely topics, including the Opening Keynote by José Eduardo Moreira, General Director, TAP Maintenance & Engineering, and moderated by Lee Ann Shay, Executive Editor, MRO and Business Aviation for Aviation Week. Aviation Week's Director of Fleet Data Services, Daniel Williams, will present the industry forecast.

Other timely sessions include Geopolitical Headwinds: How Global Tensions are Reshaping European MRO, From Hangar to Humanitarian Response: Aviation's Critical Role in Disaster Relief, Supply Chain and Material Availability: What's the Fix?, Building Scalable MRO Capability for the Next Engine Era, Economics of an Engine, Navigating Engine Leasing and Finance, Investing in Capacity: Building and Scaling Engine MRO Infrastructure for the Future, Engine Retirement and the Impact on the USM Market, AI in Action: Pros, Cons, and Lessons Learned from Industry Leaders, and more.

The event features networking opportunities including two evening receptions: Monday, August 31 will feature a welcome reception hosted by TAP Maintenance & Engineering; Tuesday, September 1, attendees are invited to experience the Runway to Rooftop Party presented by Aviation Network Group. Tickets for this event are limited and can be reserved here: https://aviationnetworkgroup.co.uk/events/runway-to-rooftop?_sp=34ed44c6-325b-45a2-a9d0-18f9054595d9.1785448715776

"We are looking forward to bringing the aviation engine community to Lisbon to connect with colleagues and address how current events, from AI to global tensions, are impacting the industry," said Helen Curl, Vice President of Events for Aviation Week by Informa. "The event attracts senior level industry leaders, from 60 countries, more than half of whom have buy approval within their companies."

The AeroEngines Europe Host Sponsor is TAP Maintenance & Engineering and Premium Sponsors are elfc, IAI, Lufthansa Technik, and Ramco. Sponsors are Air France Industries KLM E&M, Next Level Aviation, SES, and SETNA.
