

Talentuch expands its HR Community with expert webinars for HR leaders and business executives

Talentuch continues to expand its HR Community to discuss hiring, leadership, organizational growth, and workforce strategy.

CHICAGO, IL, UNITED STATES, August 5, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Talentuch expands its HR Community with expert webinars for HR leaders and business executives

The graphic is a promotional banner for a webinar. On the left, a light blue box contains a bell icon, a 'REMINDER' button, and a 'REGISTER NOW FOR FREE' button. Below this, the title 'THE FUTURE OF WORKFORCE PLANNING WITH AI' is displayed in bold, followed by a subtitle: 'Learn how AI and talent intelligence can help you make smarter workforce planning decisions before hiring begins.' The Talentuch logo is at the bottom left of this section. To the right, three circular headshots of the speakers are shown. Above them, the text 'Speakers: Anastasia Dondich, Bohdan Kovalchuk' is listed. Below the headshots, the host 'Host: Maria Petkovska' is mentioned. At the bottom right, an orange box provides the date 'December 17, 2026' and the times for different locations: '4:00 pm London', '6:00 pm Kyiv', and '11:00 am New-York'.

Talentuch continues to expand its Talentuch HR Community by hosting free educational webinars that bring together HR leaders, talent acquisition professionals, business executives, and industry experts to discuss practical approaches to hiring, leadership, organizational growth, and workforce strategy.

Our goal is to create webinars that people attend because they leave with ideas they can use the next day.”

Violetta Stemasova, CEO of Talentuch

The webinar program is designed to help HR professionals and business leaders learn from practitioners who share real-world experience rather than theoretical presentations. Sessions cover topics including talent acquisition, leadership development, employee engagement, workforce planning, organizational design, HR technology, AI in HR, Microsoft Dynamics recruitment, and other challenges facing growing organizations.

Unlike product demonstrations or sales-focused events,

Talentuch webinars emphasize practical advice, case studies, lessons learned, and actionable recommendations that participants can apply within their own organizations.

"Our goal is to create webinars that people attend because they leave with ideas they can use the next day," said Violetta Stemasova, CEO of Talentuch. "There is no shortage of HR content today. We want to bring together experienced practitioners who openly discuss what worked, what didn't, and what other HR leaders can learn from their experience."

The webinar series also serves as a networking platform for HR professionals, Microsoft partners, technology companies, consultants, and business leaders interested in sharing knowledge with an international audience. Talentuch actively collaborates with speakers from software vendors, consulting firms, HR technology providers, and growing organizations across North America and Europe.

The initiative supports Talentuch's broader mission of building an international HR community that provides practical education while connecting organizations with experienced HR and recruitment professionals. Participants can register for upcoming webinars at no cost and gain access to expert discussions, downloadable resources, and opportunities to connect with fellow HR leaders.
