Published by Orison Publishers Inc., the journal offers a monthly Scripture-based framework of praises, prayers, and promises for deepening faith

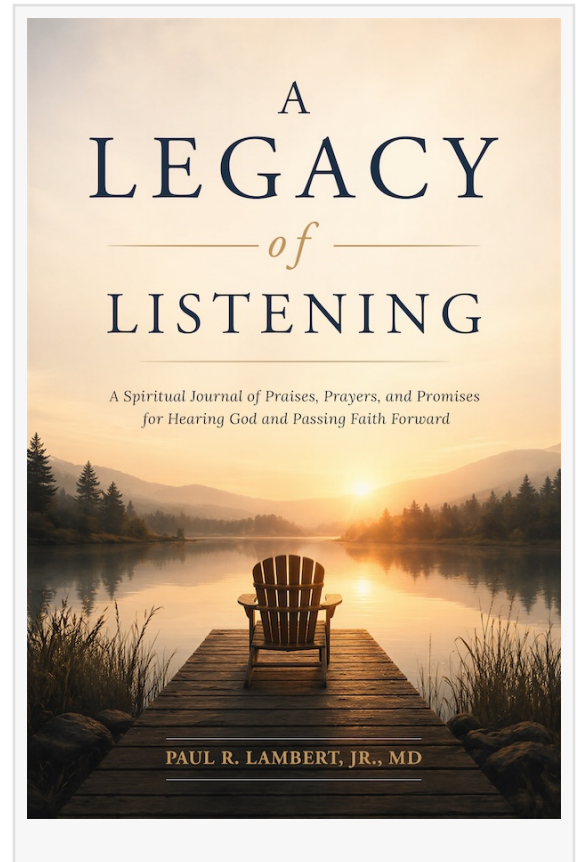

CHARLESTON, SC, UNITED STATES, August 11, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Paul R. Lambert Jr., MD, a neurotologic surgeon with more than four decades of medical practice and a lifelong commitment to faith-based ministry, has released A Legacy of Listening: A Spiritual Journal of Praises, Prayers, and Promises for Hearing God and Passing Faith Forward, published by Orison Publishers Inc.

The journal is designed to help readers slow down, engage with Scripture intentionally, and recognize God's voice amid the distractions of everyday life. Each month is organized into four guided segments featuring hundreds of curated passages of praises, promises, and prayers, offering a simple and consistent framework for daily reflection, meditation, and spiritual growth.

"God is speaking — the journal helps readers listen," said Paul R. Lambert Jr., MD, author. "Over time, it becomes more than a personal practice. It becomes a testimony and a treasured spiritual legacy to encourage generations to come."

The journal's structured format invites readers to record insights and moments of growth, helping them gain clarity, strengthen their faith, and deepen their understanding of God's will across every season of life. Its design makes it accessible to readers at any stage of their faith journey, from those seeking a more disciplined prayer life to those looking to leave a meaningful spiritual record for family and future generations.

Lambert brings a distinctive combination of professional discipline and ministry experience to the project. A graduate of Duke University, where he earned both his undergraduate and medical degrees, he has practiced neurologic surgery at leading academic institutions for over forty years. Alongside his medical career, he has faithfully led Bible studies and founded a surgical mission outreach in the Dominican Republic, serving on mission teams there and in Bolivia for more than thirty years. He and his wife, Debbie, live in Charleston, South Carolina, and have three children and three grandchildren.

A Legacy of Listening is available from August 14, 2026 on Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and wherever books are sold.
