The landmark transaction ranks among Marion County's highest recorded residential sales of 2026 and underscores the growing strength of the luxury real estate, acreage and equestrian property markets throughout Morriston, Ocala and the greater Marion County area.

Gailey Enterprises Real Estate represented the buyer throughout the acquisition, delivering the discretion, strategic guidance and hands-on advisory services required in a transaction of this caliber. Drew Massey of Gailey Enterprises Real Estate served as one of the buyer's agents, assisting with the property evaluation, negotiations, due diligence and successful all-cash closing.

"This transaction represents exactly the level of service our high-net-worth clients expect from Gailey Enterprises," said Rhonda Gailey, Founder and Broker-Owner of Gailey Enterprises Real Estate. "Our clients rely on us not simply to locate a property, but to identify exceptional opportunities, protect their privacy, negotiate strategically and manage every detail of the acquisition with precision."

The sale further establishes Gailey Enterprises Real Estate as a trusted representative for affluent and ultra-high-net-worth buyers seeking significant luxury homes, equestrian estates, horse farms, acreage properties, coastal residences and investment real estate throughout Florida.

“Representing a buyer in a transaction of this magnitude requires a high level of responsiveness, discretion and attention to detail,” said Drew Massey, Buyer’s Agent with Gailey Enterprises Real Estate. “Our responsibility was to understand the buyer’s objectives, anticipate potential challenges and help execute the acquisition seamlessly. It was an honor to represent our client in the purchase of such an extraordinary property in one of Marion County’s most desirable equestrian areas.”

Located near Ocala and the World Equestrian Center, Morriston has become increasingly attractive to luxury buyers seeking privacy, substantial acreage and convenient access to Central Florida’s internationally recognized equestrian community. The region continues to draw prominent buyers, investors, professional equestrians and seasonal residents from across the United States and abroad.

With its headquarters in Ocala and an established footprint across Central Florida, Northeast Florida, South Florida, the Florida Keys and other key luxury markets, Gailey Enterprises combines statewide reach with highly specialized local expertise. The brokerage’s expanding network enables its advisors to connect clients with publicly marketed properties as well as exclusive opportunities that may never reach the broader market.

“Representing sophisticated buyers requires much more than access to listings,” Gailey said. “It requires relationships, confidentiality, deep market intelligence and the ability to execute decisively. Our team understands the nuances of Marion County and the Ocala luxury and equestrian markets, while also providing the statewide reach our clients require.”

The Morriston acquisition reflects the continued demand for private estates, luxury horse farms, significant acreage and equestrian properties near the World Equestrian Center. Buyers continue to recognize Marion County for its natural beauty, land value, privacy and access to one of the world’s premier equestrian destinations.

For Gailey Enterprises Real Estate, the closing represents another milestone in the company’s continued expansion throughout Florida’s luxury real estate market.

“Our footprint is growing because our clients trust us to perform,” Gailey added. “Whether the transaction involves a private Ocala estate, an equestrian property near the World Equestrian Center, a coastal residence or a significant Florida investment, our goal remains the same: provide exceptional representation and deliver results at the highest level.”
