national parent company dedicated to empowering leading local solar businesses, today announced that two of its operating companies, Green Rack Solar and Ipsun Solar, have been recognized in the 2026 Solar Power World Top Solar Contractors List, one of the solar industry's most respected annual rankings.

The rankings highlight the continued growth and success of both companies in their respective markets:

- Green Rack Solar ranked #1 among all solar installers headquartered in Pennsylvania and #171 nationwide.
- Ipsun Solar ranked #5 among residential solar installers headquartered in Virginia and #328 nationwide.

Published annually by Solar Power World, the Top Solar Contractors List recognizes the nation's leading solar installation companies based on the previous year's installed capacity and overall business performance.

"These rankings are a testament to the incredible people behind Green Rack Solar and Ipsun Solar," said Eben Needham, President of Civic Renewables. "Every day, our teams earn the trust of homeowners through exceptional craftsmanship, honest guidance, and an unwavering commitment to customer service. We're proud to celebrate this recognition and even more proud of the impact these companies are making in the communities they serve."

Green Rack Solar serves homeowners throughout Pennsylvania and Ohio, while Ipsun Solar serves Virginia, Maryland, and Washington, D.C. Together, the companies have helped thousands of homeowners lower their energy costs, reduce their dependence on the grid, and invest in a cleaner energy future.

As residential solar demand continues to grow, Civic Renewables supports both companies by investing in expanded installation capacity, engineering resources, project management, and customer success teams. These investments have enabled Green Rack Solar and Ipsun Solar to scale while maintaining the personalized, community-focused experience that has defined each brand.

Both companies also benefit from membership in the Amicus Solar Cooperative, a member-owned network of leading independent solar companies across North America. Through the cooperative, Green Rack Solar and Ipsun Solar gain access to collective purchasing power, shared technical expertise, and industry best practices, allowing them to deliver premium products and competitive pricing without compromising quality.

"Our vision at Civic Renewables is simple: help the best local solar companies become even stronger," Needham added. "By combining the efficiencies, resources, and scale of a national organization with the trust and relationships built by local businesses, we're creating a model that benefits both homeowners and the communities our companies serve."

As Civic Renewables continues to expand its network of local clean energy businesses nationwide, the company remains focused on accelerating the transition to renewable energy while preserving the quality, integrity, and personalized service that homeowners expect from trusted local installers.
