

Creatio Announces Bank.AI Digital Event to Help Financial Institutions Scale AI with Confidence

The event will explore industry trends, best practices, agentic use cases, and governance frameworks for banks and credit unions

BOSTON, MA, UNITED STATES, August 6, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Creatio, a global vendor of an AI CRM and workflow platform where people and AI agents work together—with no limits on users, agents, or scale—today announced Bank.AI: Real-World Innovation in Banking, an online event taking place on September 24, 2026, at 10:00 a.m. EDT. The event is designed to help banks and credit unions move from AI exploration to measurable business outcomes with practical insights and real-world use cases.

As AI rapidly reshapes the financial services industry, banking leaders are looking beyond experimentation toward enterprise-wide adoption. With 73% of organizations believing AI agents will be critical to achieving their business goals, the event will explore how financial institutions can scale AI responsibly and leverage it to accelerate growth and deliver more personalized customer and member experiences.

The Bank.AI digital event will bring together executives and practitioners who are pioneering the future of AI in banking to discuss industry trends, best practices, agentic use cases, and governance frameworks. Through expert presentations and real-world examples, attendees will gain practical guidance for building and scaling AI initiatives with confidence.

During the event, participants will:

- Explore emerging trends, proven approaches, and practical insights from organizations actively shaping the future of banking
- Explore real applications across growth, customer experience, operations, and compliance.

- Understand the trends, technologies, and leadership decisions that will shape banking over the next decade.

Registration is now open.
