This is the treatment that does thousands of Kegels for you, and this is the best price we have ever offered on it. Eight sessions is everything someone needs to experience what the Libby Chair can do”

The Corelife Wellness Team

The Libby Chair, powered by Emsella technology, is a non-invasive treatment approved by the FDA and Health Canada for strengthening the pelvic floor. During a session, patients remain fully clothed while the chair delivers electromagnetic stimulation that performs the equivalent of thousands of Kegel exercises — no effort required. The treatment is used to address bladder leaks, overactive bladder, and pelvic organ prolapse in both women and men.

Pelvic floor weakness is one of the most common — and least discussed — health concerns among adults, affecting millions of Canadians after childbirth, surgery, or simply with age. Many accept symptoms like leaking during a laugh, sneeze, or workout as a fact of life. Corelife Wellness was built around a different message: bladder leaks are common, but they are not something anyone has to live with.

"This is the treatment that does thousands of Kegels for you, and this is the best price we have ever offered on it," said the team at Corelife Wellness. "Eight sessions is a full treatment protocol — it is everything someone needs to experience what the Libby Chair can do. We wanted to remove every barrier for people who have been putting their pelvic health off."

Each treatment session takes under 30 minutes, requires no downtime, and fits easily into a lunch break. The eight-session package reflects the clinically recommended course of treatment, typically delivered over approximately four weeks.

Alongside the Libby Chair, Corelife Wellness offers pelvic floor physiotherapy, Venus Ab Rehab (Emsculpt) core restoration, and educational workshops — a complete, professional approach to pelvic health under one roof at its clinic at 3075 Hospital Gate in Oakville, serving patients across Oakville, Burlington, Milton, Mississauga, and the greater Halton region.

The 8-for-$800 offer is available for booking now through August 31, 2026. Spots are limited by treatment capacity. To book or learn more, visit www.corelifewellness.ca or call (289) 608-7136.
