The new First Light Seattle listing combines contemporary residential design, premium features and access to an extensive collection of building amenities. Guests can enjoy the privacy and functionality of a complete residence while remaining close to Pike Place Market, the Seattle Waterfront, Belltown and many of the city’s leading business and entertainment destinations.

“First Light is a distinctive addition to our furnished housing options in Seattle,” said Khoa Huynh, of Aplus Housing. “This residence gives guests a sophisticated place to settle in, along with the comfort, convenience and everyday functionality that matter during an extended stay.”

Contemporary Downtown Comfort

The newly listed residence features two bedrooms and two bathrooms, making it well suited for individual travelers, couples, colleagues or small families navigating a temporary assignment or relocation. Its open-concept design connects the kitchen, dining and living areas while providing plenty of space to work, relax and maintain a comfortable routine.

Floor-to-ceiling windows introduce abundant natural light and frame views of downtown Seattle. A private balcony extends the living area, giving guests their own outdoor space above the energy of the city.

The modern kitchen features custom cabinetry, quartz countertops, premium appliances and refined fixtures. Available appliances include a refrigerator, gas cooktop, microwave and coffee maker, allowing residents to prepare meals at home throughout their stay.

An in-unit washer and dryer add another level of convenience. Central climate control and contemporary technology help create a comfortable environment throughout the residence.

Both bathrooms continue the home's clean, modern aesthetic. Quartzite surfaces, sleek fixtures and carefully selected finishes create a calm, spa-inspired setting. Together, the thoughtful layout and upscale materials allow the residence to feel like a genuine home rather than temporary accommodations.

An Architectural Landmark

Completed in 2024, First Light is a 48-story mixed-use tower designed around architecture, art and contemporary urban living. The building was developed by Westbank and designed by James K.M. Cheng Architects, with MG2 serving as executive architect.

Its exterior includes "The Veil," a seven-story installation by Seattle glass artist John Hogan featuring approximately 10,000 individually arranged glass discs. The installation transforms the natural light across the building's podium while contributing a recognizable artistic presence to the downtown streetscape.

First Light's interiors reflect the same attention to craftsmanship. Natural palettes, contrasting finishes, white oak flooring, architectural concrete and custom millwork create a residential environment that feels sophisticated without sacrificing warmth. The gallery-inspired lobby features additional glasswork, a custom Fazioli piano and full-time concierge service.

Amenities Above Seattle

Modern comfort meets incredible downtown Seattle views in the living room at First Light.

Residents have access to wellness, recreation and gathering spaces throughout the tower. These amenities provide opportunities to exercise, work, entertain or relax without leaving the building.

One of First Light's defining features is its cantilevered rooftop Sky Pool. The 25-meter lap pool extends above the city and offers panoramic views of downtown Seattle, Elliott Bay, Puget Sound and the surrounding mountains. Rooftop hot tubs, outdoor seating and a fire pit provide additional places to unwind.

The building also includes a wellness center with more than 3,000 square feet dedicated to fitness. Cardio equipment, strength-training areas and yoga space support a variety of routines. A wraparound terrace connects the wellness facilities to views of the city and surrounding region.

Additional amenities include the Secret Garden rooftop retreat, lounge areas, gathering spaces, a screening room, private dining areas, a resident salon, bicycle storage and pet-friendly spaces. One parking space is included with the Aplus Housing residence.

Connected to Work and Seattle Life

First Light sits near several of Seattle's most active downtown neighborhoods. Guests can easily reach Belltown, Pike Place Market, the central business district and the Seattle Waterfront.

The location offers convenient access to major employers, corporate offices and Seattle's financial and commercial districts. This makes the residence especially well positioned for executives, consultants, traveling employees and professionals completing temporary projects in the city.

Outside the workday, residents can explore restaurants, coffee shops, theaters, shopping destinations and cultural attractions. The Seattle Art Museum, Olympic Sculpture Park, Climate Pledge Arena and Space Needle are all nearby. Access to light rail, Interstate 5 and major transportation routes also supports travel throughout the greater Seattle area.

Furnished Housing for Extended Stays

The First Light residence is available through Aplus Housing for stays of 30 days or longer. It provides greater privacy, flexibility and residential comfort than a traditional hotel room.

Aplus Housing serves corporate travelers, relocating employees, interns, healthcare professionals, contractors, insurance placements and project teams. Each stay includes access to a functioning, fully furnished home supported by Aplus Housing's local team.
