

Free Book Listing Service Launched by Nani Media House Across Its Ten-Magazine Network

Authors can now list a published book free in the Nani Media House directory, reaching ten magazines including Rich Books, Rich Woman and Sovereign.

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, August 7, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Nani Media House, the independent publisher behind Rich Books, Rich Woman, Rich Man and Sovereign Magazine, has opened its book directory to outside authors. Any author with a published book can now request a free listing at app.nanimediahouse.com/list-book.

The graphic features the Nani Media House logo (a black square with a white 'N') and the text 'NANI MEDIA HOUSE'. Below this, the headline reads 'The Book Directory is now open to all authors'. A sub-headline states 'Free listings across ten magazines, from Rich Books to Sovereign'. A URL button shows 'app.nanimediahouse.com/list-book'. To the right is an illustration of three books standing upright: a black one with a leaf design, a green one with a geometric pattern, and an orange one with a classical building facade.

Nani Media House opens free book listing directory for authors

A listing gives a book its own page across the Nani Media House network of ten magazines, which together have published more than 4,600 stories. Each listing carries the cover, synopsis, publisher details and store links, alongside a connected author profile with the author's Readers ask where to find books by independent authors, and authors ask how to be found. The directory answers both. A book that deserves readers should not need a marketing budget to reach them.”

biography, photograph and website. Book pages are built with structured data, so search engines display the cover and details correctly and AI assistants can find and recommend the books when readers ask for them.

The submission takes about three minutes. An author enters a book title, ISBN or Amazon link, and the system retrieves the cover, synopsis and publication details automatically before the author confirms them. Editors review every submission, and listings normally go live within a few days. The service is free, with no charge to list now or later.

The directory accepts published books with an ISBN or a live Amazon listing, across fiction and non-fiction. Submissions are reviewed by the editorial desk of Rich Books Magazine, the network's dedicated books title, and not every book submitted is listed. Authors whose books are accepted are notified by email when the listing is live.

The listing service is free for all authors. Nani Media House also offers paid editorial features, including professional reviews and author interviews written by its editors. These are optional and have no bearing on whether a book is accepted or listed.

The directory opens at a time when book discovery increasingly happens through AI assistants rather than search engines. Listings in the Nani Media House directory are structured so that a book's details, cover and author profile remain readable to both, giving independent and traditionally published authors a permanent editorial presence beyond their retail pages.
