/EINPresswire.com/ -- The anime "TANK CHAIR-戦車椅子-" will premiere on Sunday, October, 2026, on TOKYO MX and other stations across Japan. Ahead of the premiere, the production has unveiled a new key visual, the main trailer, the opening and ending theme artists, and additional cast members. Serialized in Kodansha's Monthly Shonen Sirius, Manabu Yashiro's original manga has surpassed one million copies in circulation worldwide.

KEY VISUAL

Further back are Uzu and Sensei, both shown here for the first time. Sensei's voice actor remains undisclosed for now.

□MAIN TRAILER

Set to the opening theme, SiM's "DALALA," the main trailer is packed with relentless action. Recorded entirely through pre-scoring, the cast's raw performances and the ferocious battles fought from the tank chair itself are not to be missed. As Nagi and Shizuka's story accelerates through countless fierce battles, keep an eye out for the newly announced characters who play pivotal roles in the narrative—including Uzu (Voiced by Gen Sato) and Dr. Radio (Voiced by Yurina Amami), alongside a colorful cast brought to life by Nobuyuki Hiyama, Hochu Otsuka, and Tetsu Inada!

□THEME SONGS

The opening theme is "DALALA" by SiM, an energetic, high-velocity track that evokes the chaos of this world and the opening of Nagi and Shizuka's battle. The ending theme is "SYNC" by Daoko, a calm song that cradles the afterglow of the fight.

- Opening theme: SiM "DALALA"

[Artist comment] "While trying to express the chaotic world of this series through music and lyrics, we ended up creating a song unlike anything SiM has written before. Even before its release, it's already sending crowds through the roof at our live shows!"

[Profile] A four-piece reggae-punk band from Shonan that makes an ultimate contradiction work: brutally heavy, yet intricate and catchy. They have sold out Nippon Budokan and Yokohama Arena, hosted the 10,000-capacity DEAD POP FESTiVAL, and headlined major rock festivals nationwide.

- Ending theme: Daoko "SYNC"

[Artist comment] "On 'SYNC,' made together with Sasuke Haraguchi, the comfortable track and melody are my favorite part. I wrote the lyrics thinking about the relationship between Shizuka and Nagi, and also about myself. I would be happy if it quietly stays close to the hearts of those who listen."

[Profile] Born in Tokyo in 1997, Daoko drew attention for songs she posted online at age 15 and made her major-label debut in 2015. Her collaboration with Kenshi Yonezu, "Uchiage Hanabi", has surpassed 700 million views on YouTube.

□ADDITIONAL CAST

Yurina Amami joins as Dr. Radio, and Gen Sato as Uzu.

- Yurina Amami (as Dr. Radio)

[Comment] "Hi everyone, I'm Yurina Amami, and I'll be playing Dr. Radio!

Radio can be blunt, a bit socially awkward, and maybe a little out of shape. But deep down, she is incredibly loving and supports everyone around her with her own clumsy kind of warmth. I've grown to absolutely adore her. I can't wait for you to experience the dark yet wonderfully pop-infused world of "TANK CHAIR", along with its high-octane action! Please eagerly anticipate this broadcast!"

[Profile] Represented by 81 Produce. Born July 7 in Kanagawa Prefecture. Her roles include Mr. C.B. in "Umamusume: Pretty Derby", Tsukasa Tojo in "Heaven Burns Red", and Akane Makino in "Magilumiere Magical Girls Inc".

- Gen Sato (as Uzu)

[Comment] "For the first time in my career as a voice actor, from the very moment I auditioned, I felt this profound certainty—a deep conviction that I was the only one meant to play this character and truly walk alongside him. I really hope you enjoy this epic story—a deeply human tale about searching for love in all its many forms."

[Profile] Represented by I'm Enterprise. Born March 22. His roles include Finn Oldman in "HIGH CARD", Chrome in "Dr. STONE", Ko Yamori in "Call of the Night", and Sato in "Tales of Wedding Rings".
