Reliant Mortgage ranked No. 1099 nationally, based on three-year revenue growth of 313%.

The recognition represents another significant milestone for Reliant Mortgage as the company continues expanding its national footprint while navigating one of the most competitive periods the mortgage industry has experienced in recent years.

"Making the Inc. 5000 is about much more than a ranking," said Will Tullos, Founder and CEO of Reliant Mortgage. "The mortgage industry has changed dramatically over the last several years. We made the decision to keep adapting, keep investing in our people and technology, and continue building a company where great loan officers and branch leaders can grow. This recognition belongs to our entire team."

Reliant Mortgage has continued to expand its lending platform through a combination of retail, broker, wholesale and correspondent lending channels, providing mortgage professionals with access to a broad range of products and business models.

The company closed more than $216 million in mortgage volume in 2025, representing continued growth despite a higher-rate and highly competitive mortgage environment.

Reliant Mortgage's long-term strategy is centered on building a scalable mortgage platform while maintaining the flexibility and personal service of a boutique lender.

“We don't want to become a big company simply for the sake of being big,” Tullos added. “We want to build a better mortgage company. If we continue doing that, the growth will take care of itself.”
