

Spicy Organic Launches Curated Organic Spice Bundle Collection for Home Cooks, Gifters, and Wellness Shoppers

USDA Certified Organic spice bundles for Indian cooking, chai, cinnamon, and wellness — save up to 15% at SpicyOrganic.com.

MCKINNEY, TX, UNITED STATES, August 12, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- McKinney, Texas organic spice brand introduces USDA Certified Organic spice bundles — curated sets for Indian cooking, chai, baking, and wellness — available now at SpicyOrganic.com with savings of up to 15% versus individual pricing

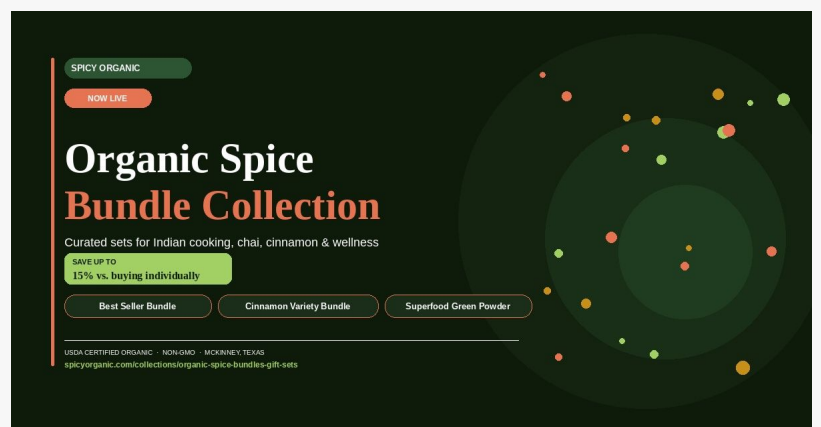

Spicy Organic has launched a curated organic spice bundle collection at SpicyOrganic.com, offering home cooks and gift shoppers pre-assembled sets of USDA Certified Organic spices at savings of up to 15% versus buying the same products individually. The collection is now live at spicyorganic.com/collections/organic-spice-bundles-gift-sets, with bundles covering Indian cooking, chai spices, cinnamon varieties, and superfood green powders.

We built these bundles around how people actually cook and gift. Every product is USDA Certified Organic, packed fresh in McKinney, Texas.”

Sunil Kumar, Founder, Spicy Organic

cinnamon formats from a single purchase, from $39.98. The Superfood Green Powder Bundle Spicy Organic launches a curated organic spice bundle collection — three USDA Certified Organic sets for Indian cooking, cinnamon varieties, and superfood green powders, now live at SpicyOrganic.com.

The launch collection includes three curated organic spice gift sets, each built around a specific cooking or wellness theme. The Best Seller Bundle brings together seven of the brand’s most-purchased spices in a single set, priced from $69.98 — a saving versus the individual retail prices of the same products. The Organic Cinnamon Variety Bundle pairs Ceylon and Cassia cinnamon in both stick and powder form, giving home cooks access to all four organic combines four organic green powders — Moringa, Neem, Amla, and Aloe Vera — from $33.98, positioned as a wellness-focused curated spice set for shoppers looking to add certified organic functional powders to their routine.

The bundle format addresses a gap Spicy Organic has observed among its customers: shoppers who want to explore a category — Indian cooking, for instance, or cinnamon varieties — but aren't sure which individual products to start with. A curated spice set removes that friction and serves as a practical gifting solution for home cooks. With organic spice gift sets gaining traction as a food-gifting category alongside specialty food boxes and subscription services, the collection is positioned for both immediate purchase and seasonal gifting through the holiday season.

"We've had customers ask us for years for a way to try several of our spices together without committing to individual packages of everything," said Sunil Kumar, Founder of Spicy Organic. "These bundles are the answer to that.

Every set is built around how people actually cook or what they're actually looking for — whether that's stocking an Indian pantry, exploring different cinnamons, or adding certified organic green powders to their daily routine. And because every product in every bundle is USDA Certified Organic, there's no compromise on quality."

All bundles in the USDA organic spice collection are available exclusively at SpicyOrganic.com and ship from the brand's McKinney, Texas facility. Every product in the collection carries USDA Organic Certificate #0847519, issued by the Texas Department of Agriculture, and is certified Non-GMO. Individual Spicy Organic spices are also available on Amazon, Walmart, eBay, and at seven H-E-B locations across the Dallas-Fort Worth area.
