Themed Mission: POSSIBLE, this year's conference will bring together veteran-owned businesses, corporate procurement professionals, supplier inclusion leaders, and business decision-makers from across the country for three days of networking, education, relationship building, and business development.

"Our goal is to create direct access between qualified veteran-owned businesses and organizations that are actively looking to build strong, capable, and competitive supply chains. These are the connections that can open doors and create long-term opportunities."
