

Synchrocure Announces Medical Device Franchise Opportunities Across Missouri

Expansion brings advanced medical device distribution to hospitals and clinics state-wide.

MO, UNITED STATES, August 18, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Synchrocure, LLC, a medical device distributor operating since 2005, has announced the availability of franchise territories across Missouri. The expansion is intended to bring advanced medical device distribution to hospitals, surgical centers, and clinics throughout the state.

Missouri's healthcare market includes major academic medical centers in St. Louis and Kansas City, along with regional hospitals and specialty practices serving communities across the state. The franchise program is designed to connect that provider network with cost-effective medical technologies through locally based franchise owners.

Our goal is to empower entrepreneurs to succeed in the healthcare industry.”

Reza Yazdian, J.D.

Synchrocure franchise owners operate independently while drawing on the company's established manufacturer partnerships, product portfolio, and operational support. The model does not require a prior medical background. A self-paced training program covers anatomy, medical device technology, and provider engagement, preparing franchise owners to work with surgeons, hospital procurement teams, and clinical administrators.

"By providing industry-leading products, comprehensive training, and robust operational support, we enable franchisees to focus on building meaningful relationships with providers and helping improve patient outcomes," said Reza Yazdian, J.D., Principal Managing Partner of Synchrocure's franchise program empowers entrepreneurs with access to innovative medical devices, multiple revenue streams, and comprehensive support.
