

Health Tech Academy Partners with Credee to Offer Flexible Payment Plans for Healthcare Training Programs

Affordable financing now available for students enrolling in allied health certification programs.

AUSTIN, TX, UNITED STATES, August 27, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Health Tech Academy (HTA) is proud to announce a strategic partnership with Credee, a consumer financing platform built to make essential services more financially accessible. Under this partnership, Credee will serve as HTA's preferred financing partner, offering students flexible installment payment plans at the point of enrollment across HTA's full catalog of allied health certification programs.

Through this partnership, students enrolling in any HTA program will experience a new kind of financing – one without the friction of a traditional approval process. With Credee, there's no credit check and no waiting on a lender's decision: students are instantly approved, see their monthly payment amounts clearly laid out up front, and can move forward with enrollment right away. This removes one of the most consistent barriers prospective students face: the gap between deciding to pursue a healthcare career and being able to pay for training upfront.

There's no credit check and no approval process to stall things – students are approved instantly, so cost doesn't slow down momentum the way it normally does.”

“We built Health Tech Academy around removing the obstacles that keep motivated people out of healthcare careers – and cost is consistently one of the biggest,” said Shamsah Noorani, CEO of Health Tech Academy. “Partnering with Credee means a student who is ready to make this career change doesn't have to wait. The opportunity is there when they're ready.”

The collaboration strengthens HTA's broader mission of compressing the timeline between career decision and employment-ready certification. Together, both organizations aim to expand educational access, reduce financial friction, and contribute meaningfully to closing the healthcare workforce gap that continues to widen across the United States.

"We designed Credee for exactly this kind of moment – when someone has already made the decision, but the payment timing doesn't line up," said Ankur Chadha, VP Growth at Credee. "There's no credit check and no approval process to stall things – students are approved instantly, so cost doesn't slow down momentum the way it normally does."

Health Tech Academy offers comprehensive online training in high-demand allied healthcare fields, including Surgical Technology, Medical Assisting, Patient Care Technician, Pharmacy Technician, Dental Assisting, Medical Billing & Coding, Phlebotomy Technology, and more. The flexible, on-demand format allows students to complete coursework at their own pace while maintaining work and family commitments.
