The America's Best Residential Addiction Treatment Centers 2026 ranking awards the leading 440 residential addiction treatment centers in the U.S. The analysis is based on four data sources:

- Reputation Score: National online survey of healthcare professionals and addiction treatment center managers in their respective U.S. state.
- Credentials: National accreditations, certifications and licenses relevant for addiction treatment centers provided by SAMHSA.
- Care Services: The number of Recovery support, education, and counseling services offered by a facility provided by SAMHSA.
- Patient reviews: volume-weighted patient experience data from leading review platforms

Rehabs.com, Recovery.com, and Google Reviews.

Based on the results of the study, House of Hope Foundation Inc. is honored to be recognized on Newsweek's list of America's Best Residential Addiction Treatment Centers 2026.

"House of Hope is a humble organization which carefully invests every dollar donated into helping more women recover from substance use disorder. Our mission is to help women regain their dignity and learn how to live without alcohol and drugs," said Maricela Gray, Executive Director of House of Hope Foundation. "House of Hope provides a safe, clean and sober, nurturing environment for substance-abusing women. We at House of Hope know that substance abuse, the interactive disease of alcoholism and drug addiction, can never be cured. We know that the disease can be arrested, given time with an encouraging environment, educational tools, knowledgeable support groups and, most importantly, the women's sincere desire to change her life.
