

Hudson Valley Firm DPL Lawyers Extends Full-Service Practice Across Westchester and Western Connecticut

PAWLING, NY, UNITED STATES, August 17, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Daniels, Porco & Lusardi, LLP, the Pawling-based firm known as DPL Lawyers, has extended its full-service practice across the Hudson Valley into Westchester County, White Plains, and western Connecticut, positioning the move as an alternative to one-off, transactional legal representation.

The firm says the expanded footprint reflects a business model built on decades-long client relationships, with a single team handling healthcare, business, and litigation matters across New York and Connecticut.

DPL Lawyers cites its long-standing client relationships as the cornerstone of the practice. The firm notes that individuals and businesses commonly spread their legal needs across separate providers - one attorney for an estate plan, another for a business dispute, a third when an employment issue arises - and it maintains that fragmented representation leaves gaps that only surface when something goes wrong. Its position is that a single firm with visibility into a client's full legal picture produces more durable outcomes than piecemeal, matter-by-matter engagement.

The firm's roots trace back to the 1960s, when attorney John A. Porco established his practice in Carmel. Robert C. Lusardi joined in the late 1970s, and current managing partner David E. Daniels, who began practicing with his own firm in Pawling in the 1980s, merged with Porco and Lusardi in 2000 to form the firm as it exists today. Over five decades, the practice has represented hospitals, physicians, municipalities, banks, and families across the region - many of them returning clients of twenty years or more.

While the firm's office remains at 1 Memorial Avenue in Pawling, the practice now serves clients throughout Dutchess, Putnam, and Westchester counties and into Danbury and western Connecticut.

Central to the firm's approach is a full-service scope - healthcare law, estate planning, and civil litigation - delivered with direct attorney communication at every stage. The firm's healthcare practice counsels providers, investors, and physician groups on joint ventures and regulatory compliance under the Stark Law and Anti-Kickback Statute, an area where DPL says early legal involvement is the difference between a compliant structure and costly restructuring. DPL Lawyers frames this continuity as the key distinction between its practice and what it characterizes as one-size-fits-all, transactional legal services.
