

Paranova Property Buyers Launches Free Arkansas Inherited Property Resource Center

The new online center connects Arkansas families with 18 plain-language guides about probate, heirs, estate debts, taxes, title, and inherited-house decisions.

LITTLE ROCK, AR, UNITED STATES, August 16, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Paranova Property Buyers has launched a free Arkansas Inherited Property Resource Center to help families find clear information when they inherit a house and are unsure what to do next.

The online center organizes 18 guides around questions families often face after a death. Readers can find information about probate, who may have authority to sell, multiple heirs, estate debts, property taxes, cost basis, title problems, and whether keeping, renting, listing, or selling the house as-is may fit their situation.

"Families often know they inherited a house, but they may not know who can sign, what paperwork matters, or which question they need to answer first," said Andrew Yu, founder of Paranova Property Buyers. "We built this resource center to give Arkansas families one calm place to start and then guide them to the information that fits their situation."

The resource center does not replace legal, tax, title, or financial advice. It helps readers identify the issue in front of them and find the detailed guide or qualified professional that may help. One featured guide explains who can sell an inherited house in Arkansas and why a person's family role alone may not establish signing authority.

The center also separates general education from Paranova's home-buying service. Families who only want information can use the guide library without requesting an offer. Owners with an inherited house in Little Rock or Central Arkansas can separately ask Paranova about a direct as-is purchase without cleaning out or repairing the property first.

Yu started Paranova part-time in 2017 while working full time as a software engineer. He moved into real estate full time in 2021 and has completed more than 250 real estate transactions. He created the resource center after seeing how ownership questions, family coordination, title issues, property condition, and time pressure can overlap after someone inherits a house.
