

2026 Women in Supply Chain Forum™ Award Honors TRAFFIX VP Sheri Iannuccilli

TRAFFIX Vice President recognized for her work modernizing the company's technology and developing the teams behind it

CHICAGO , IL, UNITED STATES, August 17, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- TRAFFIX, a leading North American logistics provider, honors Sheri Iannuccilli, Vice President of Systems & Integrations, as a recipient of this year's Women in Supply Chain Forum™ Award, in the Workforce Innovator category. The award, presented by Food Logistics and Supply & Demand Chain Executive, honors female supply chain leaders and executives whose accomplishments, mentorship and example set a foundation for women at every level of a company's supply chain network.

Iannuccilli has spent close to three decades in logistics technology, starting out in IT support and operational systems roles back in the early 1990s. She rose to leadership positions over the past 14 years, including stints as manager of business integration and systems at FLS Transportation and manager of data integration at Delmar International, where she led technology services for a global logistics company. This extensive background led her to TRAFFIX, where she now directs the systems and integration strategy that unifies the company's customer, carrier, ERP, CRM, and logistics platforms. She also works directly with TRAFFIX' global customers, advising them on data and integration questions as they grow into new regions.

"This award isn't just a way to honor females in supply chain. It's a representation of progress, it's a symbol of growth, and it's a way to celebrate achievements of all women in the supply chain who continue to pave the way for the next generation," said Marina Mayer, editor-in-chief of Food Logistics and Supply & Demand Chain Executive and co-founder of the Women in Supply Chain Forum™. "Of the 300-plus submissions received, 70 of them were self-submissions, the highest number of self-nominated applications ever in the history of this award. And, 44 of the submissions received were from male counterparts, also the highest number of male-submitted applications to date. This year's list of winners entails females making a difference in the supply chain, and I'm honored to share their journeys."

Team members who work with Sheri will tell you that she's put real work into onboarding and mentorship at TRAFFIX, and she's kept it up even as the company has grown fast around her. This past year she helped bring new customers, regions, and teams onto stable systems, and still made time to help her own team grow. Looking ahead, she wants technology to do more than keep TRAFFIX running smoothly. Her focus for the next year: strengthen the company's integration systems, push more of the supply chain toward automation and better data, and keep developing the people on her team.

"Honestly, this is more of a reflection on the teams I get to work with every day than anything I've done myself," said Sheri Iannuccilli, Vice President, Systems & Integrations at TRAFFIX. "I've always believed that great technology is only as good as the people behind it, so making sure my team feels supported and has room to grow has been my whole focus. I'm just grateful to be part of this group."
