

Adams Moving Expands Service Across Southern Connecticut

Family-owned moving company now serves nine towns from Fairfield County to the Connecticut shoreline and Middlesex County.

BRANFORD, CT, UNITED STATES, August 17, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Adams Moving, a family-owned moving company built on years of hands-on service in Connecticut, today announced the expansion of its service area to cover nine towns across Southern Connecticut. The expanded footprint now includes Branford, New Haven, Stamford, Bridgeport, Norwalk, Guilford, Madison, Clinton, and Middletown.

The move reflects growing demand from households and businesses relocating within and into the region, spanning coastal shoreline towns, Fairfield County's urban centers, and inland communities near the Connecticut River valley.

"We started as a local, family-run operation, and that hasn't changed even as we've grown," said Adam Pahlsson, Owner of Adams Moving. "What has changed is how many Connecticut families and businesses we can now reach directly, without losing the personal attention that got us here in the first place."

Why Southern Connecticut, Why Now?

Southern Connecticut has seen steady movement in recent years, from young families and professionals relocating along the Metro-North corridor in Fairfield County to retirees and remote workers settling into shoreline towns like Guilford, Madison, and Clinton. Middletown and the surrounding Middlesex County area have also drawn interest from buyers looking for more space without leaving commuting range of Hartford and New Haven.

That mix of urban, coastal, and inland demand is part of what led Adams Moving to formalize its coverage across the nine towns rather than handle requests outside its core area on a case-by-case basis.

"People don't always move in a straight line. A family might be leaving Stamford for more space in Guilford, or a business might be relocating from Bridgeport to Middletown," said Adam Pahlsson. "Having dedicated coverage across all of these towns means we already know the routes, the buildings, and the logistics before the truck ever shows up."

What Customers Can Expect

Adams Moving says the expansion will not change how each move is handled. Every job, whether it is a single apartment in New Haven or a full commercial relocation in Norwalk, still gets planned around the same core priorities: clear communication before the move, careful handling of belongings, and a crew that shows up on time and ready to work.

The company also points to its range of specialty services, including piano moving and white glove service for fragile or high-value items, as a way to serve the more complex moves that come with commercial clients and larger households across the region.

Adams Moving is a family-owned moving company serving Connecticut, offering local moving, long-distance moving, residential and commercial relocation, packing services, junk removal, piano moving, and white glove service. Built on a foundation of care and reliability, Adams Moving works to make every move, big or small, as smooth as possible for Connecticut families and businesses.
