

LuggageToShip.com Expands AI-Powered TravelTech for Smarter Global Travel

AI-powered carrier comparison, door-to-door luggage shipping, 24/7 support and flexible storage help travelers travel lighter worldwide.

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, August 18, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ --

LuggageToShip.com today announced the expansion of its AI-powered TravelTech experience, giving families, international travelers, students and people on the move a simpler way to compare shipping options, book, pay, generate labels and track luggage through one connected digital experience.

As travelers continue late-summer vacations and international journeys across Europe, Asia and beyond, LuggageToShip.com is advancing a simple idea: arranging how luggage reaches a destination should be almost as easy as arranging the trip itself.

Travelers already compare flights, hotels and transportation. We believe arranging how your luggage gets there should be just as simple—compare, book, ship, track and travel lighter.”

Customers select an origin country and ZIP code or city, choose a destination country and ZIP code or city, enter their shipping date and select what they want to send. LuggageToShip.com's technology then connects them with available services and pricing through major global carrier networks.

Depending on route and carrier availability, customers can arrange domestic shipments within supported countries or international shipments across more than 220 countries and territories.

Country to country. City to city. ZIP to ZIP. Door to door.

"Travelers already use technology to compare flights, hotels and transportation," said Mike Ulker,

Founder of LuggageToShip.com. "We're bringing that simplicity to luggage. Tell us where you're shipping from, where it's going and what you're sending. Compare your options, book, receive your label, track your shipment and travel lighter."

One TravelTech Experience From Door to Door

LuggageToShip.com's technology is integrated with major global carrier networks, including DHL, FedEx and UPS, enabling travelers to access available services through one customer-friendly booking experience.

Instead of starting with a carrier, the customer starts with the journey.

Travelers can check available prices, choose a service, book and pay online, receive shipping labels and track their shipment digitally.

Customers can arrange eligible pickup from a home, hotel, school or office or use available carrier drop-off locations worldwide.

For travelers, the result is straightforward:

Compare. Book. Pay. Ship. Track.

The global shipping infrastructure behind that experience may be complex. The customer experience doesn't have to be.

AI That Makes Travel Easier

Artificial intelligence and automation are increasingly supporting the LuggageToShip.com

The image shows a screenshot of the LuggageToShip.com website. The header features the company logo and the tagline "We Ship Worldwide". Below the header, there is a navigation menu with four categories: "Luggage", "Boxes", "Golf Bags", and "Skis & Snowboards". Each category is represented by an icon and a list of items. The "Luggage" category includes "Small Luggage", "Medium Luggage", and "Standard Luggage". The "Boxes" category includes "Small Boxes", "Medium Boxes", and "Standard Boxes". The "Golf Bags" category includes "Golf Bags" and "Golf Clubs". The "Skis & Snowboards" category includes "Skis" and "Snowboards". The website also features a "Shipping Date" selector and a "Select item(s)" dropdown. At the bottom, there is a "Chat with us" button and the website URL "www.LuggageToShip.com".

experience, with the company's technology strategy focused on removing friction rather than adding more technology for travelers to manage.

AI and automation can help simplify service selection, booking assistance, documentation, shipment workflows, customer communications and other steps between origin and destination.

"Travelers don't need more complexity," Ulker said. "AI should work behind the scenes. The customer should be able to tell us where their luggage is, where it needs to go and when—and technology should make everything in between easier."

The platform is also designed for travelers who may already be on the move. Whether a customer is at a hotel, university, conference, ski resort or vacation destination, the digital experience makes it possible to arrange shipping and payment online and manage the shipment through a centralized account.

A few clicks. Secure payment. Shipping arranged. Back to the journey.

From New York to Paris—and Around the World

The technology becomes particularly valuable for international and multi-city travel.

Families traveling through France, Spain, Italy, Greece, Ireland or the United Kingdom, or travelers heading to Japan and other destinations across Asia, may move between airports, trains, taxis and hotels throughout the same journey.

Winter is Coming!

Be Prepared Your Snowboard And Ski Kits

LuggageToShip.com helps winter travelers ship skis, snowboards and luggage to eligible destinations worldwide.

Several large suitcases can turn every connection into another baggage transfer.

LuggageToShip.com gives travelers another option:

Ship the luggage instead of carrying it through every part of the trip.

Its worldwide reach also means the platform isn't limited to shipments originating in the United States. Depending on available routes and carrier coverage, customers can check eligible domestic and international services between supported locations worldwide.

For international shipments, LuggageToShip.com also assists customers with applicable customs documentation.

Luggage, Boxes, Golf Clubs, Skis and More

The TravelTech experience extends beyond suitcases.

Customers can check available services for luggage, boxes, golf clubs, skis, snowboards, packages and other eligible belongings.

That makes the platform useful across multiple travel occasions: family vacations, college and study-abroad moves, business and conference travel, golf and ski trips, relocations and extended international journeys.

LuggageToShip.com also offers storage options for customers whose belongings don't need to reach the final destination immediately, including up to six months of free storage for qualifying shipments under applicable terms.

Whether traveling for a week, a semester or an extended stay, the idea remains the same:

Carry less. Travel easier.

Technology Backed by 24/7 Human Support

LuggageToShip.com combines automation with 24/7, 365-day customer support by phone, email and online chat.

That human assistance can be especially important when travelers have questions about international documentation, shipment preparation, tracking or changing travel plans.

High customer trust provides another important measure of the experience.

The combination of technology, global carrier access and human support is designed to give travelers both convenience and confidence when sending belongings thousands of miles from home.

Before You Check Another Bag, Check Your Options

Travelers already compare flights, hotels and transportation before a trip.

LuggageToShip.com wants them to make one more comparison:

Should I check this bag—or ship it?

For families traveling internationally, students heading to college, business travelers, golfers, skiers and anyone carrying multiple or oversized bags, shipping provides another way to plan the journey.

"Our goal is to make luggage shipping a natural part of travel planning," Ulker said. "Before you carry another bag to the airport, check your options. Your luggage doesn't always have to travel the same way you do."
