

Kentucky's Credit Unions Collaborate with Rational Exponent for Next-Generation Risk and Compliance Capabilities

Credit unions will benefit from professional human expertise enhanced by AI-powered capabilities delivered through the re:agent platform

LOUISVILLE, KY, UNITED STATES,
September 2, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/

-- Kentucky's Credit Unions (the League) and Rational Exponent today announced a collaboration to bring next-generation risk and compliance capabilities to their member base. Kentucky's Credit Unions will use Rational Exponent's re:agent platform to bring enhanced risk and compliance services to credit unions. All credit unions enrolled in the League's Compliance+ program will automatically benefit, and other credit unions can engage through Policy+, offered through the League's wholly owned subsidiary Thoroughbred Business Services.

Enhanced compliance services for Kentucky's credit unions.

Building on the League's long-standing commitment to compliance assistance, the League will use re:agent to deliver enhanced risk and compliance services. re:agent turns static policy and procedure documentation into a living governance framework, surfaces regulatory requirements in real time, and helps credit unions of every size stay examination ready. Through Compliance+ and Policy+, credit unions will have faster answers to compliance questions, earlier identification of gaps, and a higher level of oversight than ever before.

Advancing risk and compliance across the industry.

The League and Rational Exponent are working together to advance risk and compliance practices across the credit union industry. The collaboration pairs the League's deep understanding of credit unions and their regulatory environment with Rational Exponent's AI platform, purpose-built for regulated financial institutions. Together, the organizations aim to help credit unions meet rising regulatory expectations with confidence and to put capabilities once reserved for the largest institutions within reach of credit unions of every size.

“Supplementing our human expertise with re:agent’s unmatched technology will forever change the way credit unions navigate the complex world of risk management. There couldn’t be a better time to bring this partnership to the credit union movement.” — Jim Kasch, President, Kentucky’s Credit Unions

“Compliance and risk management take a lot of time and resources for credit unions. Our relationship with Kentucky’s Credit Unions will help reduce the manual work, strengthen oversight, and give credit unions greater confidence in their risk practices, so they can focus more on serving their members. We couldn’t be more excited about this joint effort and the value it will bring to credit unions.” — Ryan Schoenfeld, CEO, Rational Exponent

ABOUT RATIONAL EXPONENT

Rational Exponent is an AI-native fintech company founded by financial institution insiders and regulatory experts. Its flagship platform, re:agent, is an AI platform purpose-built for financial institutions navigating an increasingly complex, compliance-heavy, and resource-constrained environment. re:agent connects regulations, policies, controls, and business processes to help organizations reduce manual work, strengthen oversight, and turn risk and governance from burdensome overhead into strategic drivers of growth. The platform helps teams create compliant, approval-ready financial products in days rather than months or years. Learn more at www.rationalexponent.com.
