

Nick Eagle to Close Beloved Shasta Ascension Event with Philosophy Awakening Q&A and Meditation

Sedona Healer, Philosopher, and Founder of Eagle Vortex Healing Sanctuary Joins Contact Specialists, Authors, & Metaphysical Teachers August 27-30—Mount Shasta

MT. SHASTA, CA, UNITED STATES, August 18, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Sedona healer, author, philosopher, and spiritual teacher Nick Eagle will close the Beloved Shasta Ascension Event with a guided meditation and Philosophy Awakening Q&A, inviting audience questions on awakening, consciousness, and self-mastery. The four-day gathering takes place August 27-30 at the Regenerative Arts Learning Center (RAD Center) in Mount Shasta, California.

The event brings together contact specialists, metaphysics practitioners, healers, musicians, and researchers. Confirmed presenters include award-winning author and Antarctica explorer Brad Olsen, known for his esoteric investigations and books on the ice continent's anomalies; Jnana Kanda energy healing expert Ali Taghavi; Shambala Songstar and other musicians; and a range of additional speakers focused on contact experiences, ascension themes, and spiritual practice. Event creator Beloved (Katya Simpson) described the intention behind the gathering as creating space for "like-minded hearts and souls together, arrive as strangers, leave as family."

Nick Eagle is the founder of Eagle Vortex Healing Sanctuary, a private retreat center nestled against Bear Mountain outside Sedona on land marked by an ancient medicine wheel and recognized as a vortex site. He holds a PhD in Philosophy (with a dissertation titled "Life Does Not Have To Be Suffering”), is a Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu black belt under Robert Drysdale with multiple world and national titles, and is a certified yoga instructor.

Eagle’s path into spiritual teaching was unconventional. He began without a traditional guru or formal yoga training. His experiences include ET connections and contact, full-chakra Kundalini awakenings, sustained advanced brainwave states, and a documented demonstration of drying a wet sheet with body heat alone in freezing Sedona mountain conditions—an act traditionally associated with advanced Tibetan practices. These experiences, along with his academic background and martial discipline, inform his approach to self-mastery, healing, and awakening.

At the Beloved Shasta Ascension Event, Eagle will offer free mystical awakening and healing sessions that may include private talks, energy cleansings, and sound baths. He will also have copies of his books available, including My Awakenings, as well as his sacred guides on breathwork, meditation, chakras, and related practices.

Those unable to attend the Mount Shasta event—or who wish to deepen the experience afterward—can request a private retreat with Nick at Eagle Vortex Healing Sanctuary in Sedona. The sanctuary features the UFhOme guest house (built beside the medicine-wheel-marked vortex), a large rooftop observation deck designed for CE5-style meditations and stargazing, an Enlightenment Lagoon, a Kundalini Dojo, outdoor temple spaces, and other intentional structures for immersive healing and contemplation.

Eagle emphasizes direct experience, personal responsibility, and leaving fear behind as central to his work. Guests at Eagle Vortex typically engage in one-on-one sessions that may include guided meditation, breathwork, sound healing, hiking on the surrounding sacred lands, and practical protocols for physical and energetic mastery.
