

Roanoke Family Law Firm Slovensky Divorce & Family Law Named to 2026 Inc. 5000

Devon Slovensky's practice earns a spot among the fastest-growing private companies in America, a rare distinction for a family law firm

ROANOKE, VA, UNITED STATES, August 18, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Slovensky Divorce & Family Law has been named to the 2026 Inc. 5000, Inc. Business Media's annual ranking of the fastest-growing private companies in America. The firm ranked No. 2750 on this year's list.

The Inc. 5000 recognizes independent, privately held U.S. companies by revenue growth. Family law practices rarely appear on it. The list skews toward technology, manufacturing, and consumer brands, which makes a Roanoke divorce and family law firm's inclusion an unusual result.

Devon Slovensky founded the firm in Roanoke and built it into a practice that handles the cases many firms decline. Her work spans high-conflict custody matters, complex divorce, and international family law disputes, including litigation under the Hague Convention on international child abduction, a treaty-based area of law tried in federal court.

"This ranking belongs to our whole team," Slovensky said. "We take the hard cases, the ones that are complicated and high-stakes and sometimes international, because those are the cases where a family has the most to lose. Growing the firm has meant we can say yes to more of them."

Slovensky is a Certified Divorce Financial Analyst and a Master Advocate. The financial credential shapes how the firm approaches divorce, where the outcome often turns on untangling a balance sheet rather than on argument alone.

She describes the firm's purpose in plain terms. "I believe the courts should be open to everyone, including the people with the least power in the room," Slovensky said. "That is what keeps me in this work."

The firm continues to accept new family law matters in Virginia. Prospective clients can reach Slovensky Divorce & Family Law through SlovenskyLaw.com.
