

NAKA Technologies Opens New Office to Serve Midwest Clients

New Wisconsin office expands NAKA's presence in the Midwest, bringing its technology services closer to clients across the region.

WEST SALEM, WI, UNITED STATES, October 19, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- NAKA Technologies has opened a new office in West Salem, Wisconsin, expanding its presence in the Midwest and bringing the full NAKA experience closer to clients across the region.

As NAKA continues to grow, the company's focus remains the same: strong relationships, a connected team and a commitment to showing up for clients. The Wisconsin office is an extension of that culture, giving organizations in the Midwest a local team backed by the resources and expertise of NAKA as a whole.

The West Salem team gives clients access to NAKA's full range of technology services, including cloud and data center transformation, cybersecurity, networking, unified communications, applications, staffing and managed services. It also gives clients something equally important: a local team that understands the region and can build lasting relationships with the businesses it supports.

For NAKA, expanding into Wisconsin is about more than adding another office. It is about becoming part of the local business community while carrying forward the culture that has helped shape the company.

“Being part of NAKA Wisconsin means we get to bring everything that makes NAKA special to the organizations and communities here in the Midwest. We’re building local relationships while still being part of a team that genuinely supports one another and cares about the clients we serve,” said Jolene Schrader, Contracts Specialist at NAKA Wisconsin.

That balance of local connection and company-wide expertise is central to how NAKA works. Whether a client is planning a major technology project, strengthening cybersecurity, expanding its team or looking for ongoing IT support, the goal is to understand the organization, build trust and bring together the right people and resources to support it.

“

Opening our Wisconsin office reflects NAKA's continued commitment to the Midwest. It's a true extension of our team, built on the same culture, values and customer-first approach.”

Ben Dwyer, Engineer Practice Leader, NAKA

The West Salem office marks another step in NAKA's growth across the Midwest, with people and relationships remaining at the center of that growth.

The West Salem office is now open and supporting new and existing clients across NAKA's complete portfolio of technology services. Organizations interested in learning more about NAKA Technologies or connecting with the Wisconsin team can visit <https://nakatech.com/careers/>.
